B. & O. Engineer Retires After 55 Years Service

Above is shown John L. Maxler, veteran Deisel engineer of the B. & O. Railroad, bidding farewell to Terminal Trainmaster William M. Mori, on completion of his last run from Willard, O., to New Castle Junction. Maxler, who resides at 419 E. Fairmont avenue, retired Tuesday after 55 years of railroading.

After spending 55 years at railroading, all of it with the B. & O., John L. Maxler, of 419 Fairmont avenue, is trying to adjust himself to a life of leisure, having made the break to retirement Tuesday, when he resigned to take his pension, which he has well earned.

Mr. Maxler climbed down off the big Deisel locomotive which hauls C.S.D. No. 94, a fast freight between Willard, O., and Cumberland, Md., at 5:50 o'clock Monday evening, rounding out an enviable career at the throttle.

Began In Butler
Mr. Maxler started his railroading career in Butler in 1894, when he took a job in the car shops of the Pittsburgh and Western Railroad. He also worked at New Castle and Painesville, O., continuing in the car department until 1898, when he took a job on the road, firing, working out of Bennett and Willard, on the old Akron division. He was promoted to the grade of engineer in 1902 at Allegheny, the B. & O. having taken over the Pittsburgh and Western along about that time.

Since then, he has been working on the Akron Division, on different runs, mostly hauling fast freights. He has been an operator of Deisel power since 1942, when this type of locomotion was put in operation on the division here, and has had a hand in training many of the younger men who now operate these giants of the road, being considered one of the most trustworthy and efficient engineers on the division.

Only two other men on the division held seniority over him, they being Bert Rainey and E. M. Mit-

New Labor Law Hearings Ending Before Senate

Senate Labor Committee Is Concluding Hearings On New Measure

MAY REACH SENATE FOR ACTION SOON

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—

The Senate Labor Committee concludes hearings on a new labor law today with Democrats hoping to send a Taft-Hartley repeal bill to the Senate within a week.

Opposition from Republican members of the committee makes it highly unlikely, however, that such speedy action will be obtained despite the 8-10-5 Democratic majority on the group.

Sen. Morse (R. Ore., estimated it may take 10 days to report out. (Continued on Page Two)

Predicts Steps To Strengthen U. S. Defense

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(INS)—Rep. Vinson (D. Ga., predicted that the house armed services committee will take three important steps today to strengthen American defense.

The committee chairman forecast approval of legislation which would:

1. Authorize the air force to establish a protective "radar screen" around the United States to guard against a sudden attack.
2. Empower the air force to create a 3,000-mile range for testing new and deadlier guided missiles.
3. Strengthen the nation's secret intelligence by broadening the authority of the central intelligence agency.

The radar "screen" or "fence," as it variously is known, would be a combined United States-Canadian project designed to warn against a sudden plane attack from the Arctic wastes or from the sea.

Its cost is estimated at 161 million dollars. The legislation, previously approved by a subcommittee, provides for the construction of radar stations "within and without" the continental limits of the United States.

The project contemplates the establishment of radar stations on land and on ships, along with an air patrol by radar-equipped planes 150 miles off coast.

PARIS, Feb. 23.—(INS)—Dr. Anna Louise Strong, noted American author and lecturer ordered out of the Soviet Union for alleged espionage and subversive activities, was reported en route to the United States today aboard a Trans-World Airlines plane.

Dr. Strong's name was on the passenger list of TWA flight No. 907 which left Paris last night for New York by way of Shannon, Eire, and Gander, Nfld.

(In New York, TWA officials said that an "Anna Strong" is listed as a passenger on the Paris-New York flight, but the airline did not know definitely whether she was the famed deportee.)

Earlier, it had been reported Dr. Strong had reached Warsaw and then departed from the Polish capital for Prague, with Paris as her eventual destination.

TWA's Paris-to-New York plane on which an "Anna Strong" is listed among the passengers is flight 907, which originates in Bombay. The plane already has left Paris, according to the New York TWA office, and is due at Laguardia field at about 1:30 a. m. (EST) tomorrow.

The F-80 "Shooting Star" exploded last night while on training flight in western Germany. The pilot's name was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

"Americans In Danger Of Being Regimented"

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—(INS)—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R. Ohio) believes the American public is in danger today of becoming "regimented" by what he termed a "welfare state" being planned by the Truman administration.

The Republican leader told the 40th annual dinner of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers association in Philadelphia last night that Mr. Truman's program is "totalitarian in character" and seeks to "socialize the lives" of the American people. He declared: "The totalitarian creed so prevalent abroad would be fully established by the program which we now face here at home."

Citing evidence to grave subsidization in the Democratic program, Taft explained:

No Regard For Expense
"All of this is to be done under a very tight federal control out of some Washington bureau without regard to expense and without regard to the interest of the taxpayer."

He warned that "organized charity and government welfare (Continued on Page Two)

Grove City College Announces Two New Dormitories To Be Built

(Special to The News)

GROVE CITY, Feb. 23.—Authorization for the construction of two new dormitories has just been received by officials of Grove City College from J. Howard Pew of Philadelphia, president of the Board of Trustees of the College. Bids have been received on the two dormitories and it is expected that contracts covering the erection of the buildings will be signed in the near future.

The two dormitories, which will cost in excess of $1,100,000, represents the first step in a Development Plan authorized by the Board of Trustees in December 1947. The completion of the plans outlined by the Trustees of the College will require the expenditure of more than three million dollars, of which one-half of the amount has been pledged by the Pew Memorial Foundation of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

A campaign to raise the required matching funds is now in progress. Generous action by the Pew Memorial Foundation in making available a portion of their pledge has enabled the College to proceed with plans for the construction of much needed dormitories.

The plans announced call for the construction of a dormitory for men designed to house 140 students and a large dormitory wing to be added to the Mary Anderson Pew Dormitory with complete facilities, including a dining room and lounge, for the accommodation of 100 women.

Acheson Will Meet Foreign Ministers Soon

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—A meeting of the foreign ministers of Britain and France with Secretary of State Dean Acheson is contemplated soon to deal with the problems of western Germany.

It was anticipated today that the meeting will coincide with the signing of the pact for the north Atlantic alliance. At this meeting, the foreign ministers of Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg and, possibly Norway, would be present. State department sources profess that no decision has been made on having the pact signed by the foreign ministers. However, because of the prestige it would give this history-making alliance, diplomats felt that such a ceremony must take place.

It has been suggested that the signing take place either at Ottawa, Washington or Bermuda. The time suggested has been about the middle of March.

Washington is said to be looked on unfavorably because of the danger of demonstrations of dissident groups. The British reportedly favor Bermuda. However, there is considerable support for a meeting on the North American continent because of the contribution both the United States and Canada are making.

Mr. Truman's speech was made "off the cuff." The White House later issued a transcript of his remarks which omitted the reference to the epithet.

The transcript quoted the president as saying: "I am just as fond and just as

What is a yokel the little lad asked, and what does a yokel do, and where does he live and where does he go, when his day's employment is through. A yokel I answered is said to be, a guy from a little place, who when he looks at a building tall, has a wondering look on his face. But that's not true as you'll find some day, a yokel is one who hunts through a busy world till some day he finds the very things that he wants. And it probably won't be in sprawling towns where millions keep striving away, it will be a spot like your own home town, it's #1 today.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Disappointed looks were observed on the faces of numerous postal patrons in the post office on Tuesday. Observing a holiday, all windows were closed and no business was being conducted. The automatic stamp machine was doing a land office business.

Mrs. Louise Goslee, of 823 East Washington street, reported that the crocus in her yard are blooming. Mrs. Goslee covered them with leaves for the winter and when investigating the plants recently found them in bloom.

Reading rooms of the Free Public Library on North Mercer street are quite popular places on such rainy damp days as Tuesday. Both young and old were taking advantage of the many magazines and papers through which they could browse.

Continued good weather should give the state highways department an early start on many of its contemplated projects about the county. When funds are allocated, one of the largest building programs ever started in the county should get under way to add to the county's already excellent highway system.

Visitors to various sections of the city who have occasion to use city buses have quite a time in determining the bus alighting point in some districts. In some places, it is not marked at all, while other places the reading on the poles is so illegible that confusion results.

France Seeks To Include Part Of Algeria In Pact

PARIS, Feb. 23.—(INS)—France moved today to bring about inclusion for her three most important areas of Algeria in the proposed north Atlantic defense pact.

Diplomatic circles said that Henri Bonnet, French ambassador to Washington, was instructed to stress to the United States the vast strategic values of Algiers, Oran and Constantine as integral parts of a security arrangement.

These sources pointed out that the three cities and their environs have been assimilated into the French home administration since 1863. All played an important part in the North African campaigns of the second world war.

Six Large Cartons From Local Chapter To Make Needy People Happy In Europe

Six large cartons of clothing are on their way from the local Young Women's Christian Association to the YWCA World Emergency Fund for distribution to needy areas in Europe.

There were lovely new garments, sixteen of which were for babies and twenty for older people. The used garments included 10 for children, 45 for young women, 124 for adult women and eleven for adult men. In addition there were socks, shoes and neckties, making a grand total of 228 garments.

They were brought into the YWCA at the time of the annual meeting and during the time since then. Many people were very thoughtful of our friends across the sea in that they brought only garments which had been freshly cleaned and in some cases, neatly mended.

Packing the clothes were Mrs. Roy A. Long, chairman, Mrs. C. M. England and Mrs. James W. Moorehead.

The president charged that attacks on Vaughan and members of his staff were designed chiefly to "smear" him.

Lions Club Hears Dr. W. E. Flannery

Case Against Socialized Medicine Presented By Club Member Tuesday

New Castle Lions Club members heard Dr. W. E. Flannery, past president of the club, explain the case against socialized medicine, at the weekly noon luncheon meeting of the club, in The Castleton, Tuesday.

Dr. Flannery's address was along the same lines as that presented before the Rotary Club on Monday, in which he expressed the opinion that a voluntary program along this line would have far more advantages than a compulsory program, which the government is trying to promote.

It was announced that Ellwood City Lions would be here Friday night for a bowling match with the local team.

Guests of the club included Numa F. Vidal, of Sharon, former local man; Thomas J. Vogan, of this city; and John A. McGrath, president of New Castle Kiwanis Club.

The esteem and regard with which Mr. Maxler is held in B. and O. circles was manifested by the large group which had gathered to greet him as he stepped down out of the cab on completion of his last run, and of messages he received from officials of the road.

These included a telegram from the company, and another from Superintendent A. W. Colnot, himself a local boy, who congratulated Mr. Maxler on completion of his long service and fine record of achievement.

These will be pleasant memories in the days ahead for this veteran of the throttle, the only thing that is worrying him now is how to keep busy, because he is not just exactly ready to resign himself to an easy chair by the fireside. a bill, while other committee members have predicted two to four weeks.

Sen. Pepper (D) Fla., suggested the one-week target. He said:

"I see no reason why it should take longer. The majority is satisfied with the Thomas Bill and I doubt if we'll want to make any changes it."

The administration measure, introduced by Sen. Thomas (D) Utah, would wipe out the Taft-Hartley statute and restore a modified Wagner Act.

Republicans, led by Sen. Taft of Ohio, will fight both in committee and on the Senate floor to amend the democratic measure to preserve much of the Taft-Hartley law.

This is the factor which may delay the committee considerably in reporting out legislation.

In fact, Sen. Donnell (R) Mo., said he thought the committee ought to have two more weeks of open hearings but agreed not to press for an extension beyond tonight's deadline.

Committee chairman Thomas declined to predict how long it would take the group to act on a bill.

He said it could be done hurriedly if Republicans would agree to postpone their fight until the measure reaches the Senate floor and simply put their amendments in a minority committee report.

Chief criticism leveled against the administration measure in three weeks of hearings has been on its scrapping of the anti-strike injunction weapon.

Joseph E. Moody, president of the Southern Coal Producers Association, declared the country may face another nationwide coal strike June 30 unless Taft-Hartley is continued.

The existing mine contract expires on that date.

D. A. R. ENJOYS COLONIAL PROGRAM

Lawrence Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution met in the Castleton Hotel, Tuesday afternoon, when the business meeting was opened by Mrs. H. E. Gold-er, regent.

In observance of George Washington's birthday, Washington's prayer was included in the ritual. This was followed by the pledge of allegiance to our flag and the singing of our National Anthem. Mrs. W. W. Campbell presented a D.A.R. scrapbook that she had compiled, which contains a complete history of Lawrence Chapter up to the present year. Miss Marjorie McAnlis, who told of the work being done in the Neighborhood House under the direction of Miss Christine Buteler, exhibited a picture book, made by one of the group.

Mrs. W. J. Caldwell introduced Delbert Fletcher and Mrs. Jacob Jordan. Mr. Fletcher sang three pleasing numbers, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Jordan.

Mrs. Marvin Dinsmore, chairman of the program committee, introduced Dr. Allen G. Morrill, dean of faculty of Geneva College, Beaver Falls. Dr. Morrill gave a stimulating discourse in the lives of James Franklin and his youngest brother, the famous Benjamin Franklin, contrasting the limitations imposed on journalism in the Colonies with the freedom of the press today.

It was largely due to the knowledge and experience acquired while an apprentice in his brother's printing shop, that in later years enabled Benjamin Franklin to become a stalwart aide to George Washington during the difficult years when our government was being established.

"What we are today, we owe to the past," said Dr. Morrill, outlining the beginning of various projects, one of which was the development from the tiny news sheet of the Colonies to the large newspapers of today. Another was the ingenious printing of designs on cloth by James Franklin with his printing press that our present textile mills have developed on a large scale.

Tea was served from an attractive table with a center of red, white, and blue flowers, blue and white tapers and red ribbon. Mrs. Goldner presided at the tea table.

Guests were Dr. and Mrs. Morrill and Mrs. Ira Fulkerson.

Hostesses were: Miss Katherine Foulke, Mrs. E. B. Russell, Miss Garnet Rhodes, Mrs. W. H. Kleckner, Mrs. J. R. Meade, Mrs. Hazel Wilson, Miss Genevieve Houston, Mrs. Robert Meade Patterson, Mrs. W. C. Campbell, Mrs. Marvin Dinsmore, Miss Viola Wallace, Mrs. Gust Sanfilippo, Miss Jane Hawkins, Dr. Mildred Rogers, and Miss Helen White.

WORLD MOVES AHEAD

Domestic skies, economically speaking, are a trifle cloudy at the moment—with weakness in markets for stocks and commodities and recent reports of some increase in unemployment. But if we are headed for a readjustment involving a certain amount of pain, we can take some comfort from those who take a broader view.

For the world as a whole, according to the UN Department of Economic Affairs, 1949 promises to be better than 1948. The report views the improved food situation as "perhaps the most important development during the last year and, for that matter, since the end of the war."

That alone "may substantially mitigate inflationary pressures" this year even though prices and wages were still rising in most countries at the end of 1948. Increased industrial production, too, should contribute considerably toward a less abnormal situation during 1949, according to the report.

One point the report makes clear is that greater food production has had important beneficial effects in other areas of the global economy. It has helped to expand production generally, has increased the volume of foreign trade, and has alleviated the balance of payments for many countries.

The aggregate physical volume of goods produced in the world as a whole in 1948 is estimated at almost one-tenth above 1947 and nearly one-fifth above 1937.

The report says that most of the increase in world production came in Europe and in the Soviet Union. Information on what has been going on in Russia is sparse, the authors acknowledge, but it is said to be true that both agricultural and industrial output in the Soviet recovered to a considerable extent.

What has been accomplished offers hope of still greater progress. If the world can hope, it can work with good heart as long as it can avoid another global war—even if it cannot have the better hope that would grow out of real peace.

ATOMIC TICKER

Scientists are now on the verge of throwing out traditional methods of keeping time. At the National Bureau of Standards offices in Washington, they have a complex piece of paraphernalia called an atomic clock. It measures time by using the atom as a pendulum, thereby taking advantages of the gyrations of atomic particles that are more regular than the stars.

At present time is measured in the U. S. Naval Observatory by a fixed telescope. Each midnight a certain star will creep up and touch a crosshair in the telescope lens. This marks the beginning of the next 24-hour period. Mechanical and electrical devices subdivide the period into hours and minutes.

The accuracy obtained by this system is expressed, by those who know, as one part in 30,000,000. This is good timekeeping, but not good enough in the light of today's scientific perspective. The trouble? The world is slowing down. It doesn't revolve as fast as it formerly did, and it is irregular.

Secretary of Commerce Sawyer says the new atomic clock isn't quite as accurate as good old star time. Its accuracy is only one part in 20,000,000. But this isn't the whole story. The lessons the bureau has learned leads its experts to believe it will soon have a clock that will be accurate to one part in 10,000,000,000. This is the same as saying it will be off one second every 300 years. Benefits this fearsome accuracy will bring science and technology are many and diverse.

Its difficult to keep an open mind in the face of news such as this. To man the majestic wheeling of the stars had always been something basic and secure. The development causes open-mouthed disillusionment.

COMMON SENSE

Robert Kazmayer, who is a stimulating lecturer on foreign and domestic affairs, recently gave this excellent advice in one of his talks:

"War talk, mounting tensions, crises, these will return. You may as well get used to them, take them in stride, they're going to be with you for a long time. Better learn to live with them. These years demand of the intelligent citizens that he do everything in his power to strengthen moral and spiritual fibre of his nation, to sustain its economy and direct its course."

"Having done that, you may as well relax, enjoy the days of your years, make life as pleasant as possible for yourself and for those around you. Take the longer look, keep the over-all picture in mind. There's no percentage in waiting for happier days. They will not come in your lifetime or mine."

"If you keep eyes glued to headlines, ears to radio, jump at every alarm, you will not successfully plan and conduct a business; you'll join the ranks of the one-in-ten who are already mental cases."

This isn't the first world crisis and it won't be the last. The "war of nerves" is producing too many victims in the United States. The best medicine for survival lies in calmness and strength, and a determination to stand by our principles.

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. OESTREICHER, INS Foreign Director

A thorough revision of traditional Prussian bureaucratic procedure has been decreed for the German people today in what appears to be the boldest attempt thus far to bring democracy to the Reich.

A far-reaching decree signed by U. S. military governor Gen. Lucius D. Clay and Lieut. Gen. Sir Brian Robertson of Great Britain, knocks the props out from under the German civil service system as it has existed for scores of years.

Briefly, it means that a German government employee no longer escapes responsibility for enforcing an unfair, unjust or dangerous law or order merely on the grounds he is acting on instructions from a superior.

This was the heart and kernel of the German civil system throughout the days of the empire under Bismarck and Wilhelm II and it similarly characterized the notorious regime of Adolf Hitler.

The decree was noteworthy in that it wrote into German law one of the chief tenets of the Nuremberg war crimes trials. The decisions of that tribunal established the argument that responsible military official could not escape responsibility for wrongdoings with the naive explanation that "Hitler wanted it that."

Some of the attempts by Nuremberg defendants to dodge the issues with this type of defense would have been laughable except for the immeasurably grave aspects of the trials and the principals involved.

Some of these men in positions of enormous importance and almost unrestricted power argued that while they knew they were doing wrong they had no choice but to obey the will of the fuhrer.

This defense eventually was ruled out as evidence was amassed to show that it was physically possible for Hitler to have issued all the orders for all of Germany and occupied Europe.

It further demonstrated that orders for atrocities and violations of the accepted rules of warfare frequently were issued by the defendants entirely on their own in the belief they would aid the general war effort and contribute to the personal power and advantage of the individual concerned.

The Clay-Robertson decree goes even farther than the Nuremberg verdicts as it deals with future contingencies. It specifically relieves a civil servant from the duty of obeying an order that seems questionable on the grounds of security or preservation of democracy.

Even more than this, it requires a servant to refuse obedience and makes him jointly responsible with the actual perpetrator of an order if he fails to take advantage of the new privilege granted him as a measure of protection for the German people.

Daring On Two Grounds
The order is especially daring on two grounds.

One is that it disrupts completely the normal procedure by which German civil servants have been able to go through the motions of responsible action simply by doing exactly as they were told.

Second, it takes no immediate

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

PATIENCE, TACT NEEDED HERE

Whenever I have discussed "facts of life" in this column, I have stressed wholesome family atmosphere and parent-child relationship. Provide such atmosphere and cultivate such relationship and the boy or girl will not hesitate in the least to talk to the father or mother about any matter bearing on his or her mind or about his or her own development. Then the child will talk matters over with either parent alone or with both together. The parents will have talked over all such matters long before they arise in the child and agree on a mode of answering and explaining.

Usually, one parent is as close emotionally to the child as the other, though it often happens in a family of a boy and a girl that it is mamma's boy and papa's girl. If the scales tip at all, they had better bear more heavily for father-and-son and for mother-and-daughter preference in adolescence.

Cultivate Companionship
In matters of physical development it might be a desirable goal for the father to cultivate especially companionship relationship with his boy approaching adolescence say when he is about 13 or 14, and for the mother to aim at like relationship with her daughter, say when she is 11 or 12. However, neither the boy nor the girl nor either parent should feel embarrassed when the child shows a desire to gain more information about his or her own physical development. Let no one suppose, however, that such desirable relationship can be cultivated in a few weeks or months. It grows at best from the child's earliest years. We begin to be good parents of the adolescent child when he is born.

As any parent can see, it is good for the boy's or girl's peace of mind and for his or her relationship with the parents to know what to expect before the normal periodic functions first appear. The next best thing for the child is to have explanation and reassurance after these normal functions first appear. Otherwise emotional sufferings and anxieties may arise in the child.

Enough Wisdom
Although every parent has enough wisdom and experience to give the son or daughter elemental information and assurance, many parents may be so beset with emotions over the matter as to feel the need of talking over the matter with the family physician or reading a good book, such as "Being account of the human element. What strikes one man as being manifestly unfair may strike another as perfectly just. There is no rule of thumb regarding freedom and liberty in Germany such as that which prevails under the bill of rights in the United States and the great charter in Britain.

Also there is the fact that denazification has not worked as well as anticipated. There is still no really great sentiment for democracy in Germany and nationalist resurgence is being held in check only with greatest difficulty.

Many men still active in German life were closely associated with nazism. While they have recanted and presumably have reformed there nevertheless are certain tenets of that ideology so deeply rooted and so applicable to the German mentality that they never can be effaced completely.

But it is a bold try in an effort to install democratic systems in a portion of Europe where they are alien to all tradition and teaching. Its methods of operation will be fascinating to watch.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Here is a bit of wisdom which every one of us may well remember.

It is from an editorial I just read and it was intended to apply only to Russia and her "peace move" of a couple of weeks ago.

Don't let us be fooled, said the editorial, speaking about the "process of persuasion in which Premier Stalin is now interested and engaged."

"He is at his trickiest best in this role, for it is when he appears the most amiable that he is the most dangerous."

Then it goes on as follows, and I want you, please, to pay particular attention to the last few words:

"Let us pursue our advantage and improve our position, and it is quite evident that Russia will continue to have more and more respect for us—fear being the Russian equivalent of respect."

Fear being the equivalent of respect.

Those are the words that are significant. Because they apply not only to Russia, but to life in general and to people in general.

Fear is so often mistaken for respect.

Only today I met a girl in her early twenties.

At that age, when the whole world should be a happy, merry-go-round, she was disillusioned and had no confidence in people.

At that age, instead of considering life a flag-bedecked race-track with Success as the prize for the winner, she saw it as a free-for-all in which the honors go to the trickiest, the most inconsiderate, the wickedest.

I probed into her background a bit.

Fear of her parents had shaped her entire youth.

They wanted respect. They got fear.

She wanted to be a musician. They wanted her to go into business.

She wanted a career. They wanted her to prepare herself for marriage and motherhood.

She respected their wishes, they thought. But in reality she feared quarrels and arguments.

Fear disguised as respect exists in school when teachers are domineering and arbitrary.

It exists in the home when husbands take advantage of the fact that they are the providers and their wives no longer have the courage to break the chains.

It exists in business where employees are afraid of losing their jobs.

It is prevalent in politics where a vote of respect is often only the fear of being on the wrong side of the political fence.

Respect and fear may be synonymous in Russia, but not here where respect is based on justice and love.

Hints On Etiquette

If you have been fortunate enough to get an invite to a church wedding, you need not give up for late comers. It is entirely correct that you should keep it.

From Me To You

By MESEALL

Ne-Ca-Hi Lites . . . the official newspaper for our local High school came out this week with a very interesting editorial . . . part of which we would like to re-print at this time.

"I don't think that there are any seniors in our school who have not heard: 'Apathy of the individual is the greatest danger to Democracy.' . . . the article goes on to tell the danger in general of apathy . . . and then into the meat of the article. 'We learn when studying Problems of Democracy that corrupt government arises only when the people themselves refuse to take an active part in their government. During the past few weeks we have heard much talk about the way that our school system is being run. May I ask just who is to blame? Some say it is the fault of the school board. Others say it is cliques of peoples in the city who are running things to suit themselves. It seems to be that it is really the fault of Mr. and Mrs. New Castle. If our parents would take a greater interest in what is being done in our schools and would co-operate more fully with the teachers and directors, many of our present problems would never have arisen. Likewise the teachers should try to aid rather than hinder the advancement of education. During American Education Week our parents were asked to visit our classrooms . . . not one out of ten even came near the school.'"

"Perhaps our school board is not perfect. Possibly some cliques do manage to manipulate things to their own advantage . . . who is to blame? In my opinion, parents, teachers, and students alike need to remember that lesson taught in P. O. D. Classes . . . 'Apathy of the individual is the greatest danger to Democracy.'"

It seems to us that some thinking is going on among the students of our High school . . . and it seems that they really have arrived at a good understanding.

Washington Calling

(By Marquis Childs)

Acute Three Services Rivalry

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Flashy across the Washington sky these days are all sorts of mysterious shapes. Flying wings, super-duper jet jobs, round-the-world bombers streak across the capital and the gaping congressman has a feeling of being whirled along in the revolution of the air age.

It doesn't matter, of course, if there is only one of these spectacular jobs straight off the designing board of a poetic designer. Wrapped up in a press release or a speech telling how much faster than the speed of light it can travel, one makes as big a jolt as a hundred.

In the rivalry between the three services for funds and favor from congress, the ability of the air force to startle and surprise is the subject of bitter recrimination from both the navy and the army. That rivalry rarely has been more acute than it is today, 19 months after the services had theoretically been unified by law.

Real Significance
This is the real significance behind the drafting of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to serve as a kind of umpire over the disputes and differences that separate the three branches of our national defense. The hope that General Eisenhower will establish the pattern of an impartial chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

Only on the urgent plea of Secretary of Defense James Forrestal did General Eisenhower finally consent to come to Washington on this assignment. He had begun to establish himself as the practical, working head of Columbia university and gradually he was freeing of the capitol.

"I do not deprecate the vast capabilities of air power as a priority weapon for attack against any aggressor state. Nor do I deny that the threat of instant retaliation through an air offensive is our greatest deterrent to war today."

"But I must part company with those enthusiasts who ascribe to air power limitless capabilities in winning an instant decision. Air power, like every other weapon, has gaping limitations for war as we shall know it for many years to come. However crippling air attack can be, I am convinced beyond any reasonable doubt that should this nation be forced into still another conflict, we shall once more be forced to gain the inevitable victory over our dead bodies—those of our soldiers on the ground."

One Man's Opinion

By Walter Kiernan
(By International News Service)

There is frightening news that 40 million citizens overpaid their taxes last year. . . . This sort of thing should be stamped out before it becomes chronic.

The trouble is when some people see an "Uncle Sam Needs You" poster they figure he must be looking for the usual thing . . . money.

One man said he sent the government everything except what he needed to live on. And he was living on a brother-in-law.

Australia has a budget surplus this year and will cut income taxes 23 per cent. . . . Boats leaving New York, first come, first served.

But they have a very intelligent administration in Australia. They figures it was no ad to have kangaroos walking around with filled pouches and citizens with empty ones.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

ON LEAVING TOWN
I think when a friend of mine's tempted away
To a task that is greater and offers more pay,
Will happy he be in the new life he leads?
Is it only the money that's offered he needs?

On the morning when first at his desk he appears,
Will he miss the old friends he has known down the years?
Will those he has worked with from lowest to top,
With smiles say "Hello!" as he enters the shop?

It may be I'm foolish, my notion all wrong,
But what of his neighbors? Will they go along?
Wherever he goes new delights he may find,
But what about those he is leaving behind?

Should anyone tempt me with money to go,
From the city I love, I should answer them: "No!"
You offer more money, but that's where it ends,
The pay I'm now getting includes all my friends."

"Nothing," said Tommy, then, seeing the look of disappointment on her face, he added, "But I learned a lot during recess!"

Hazards Of Pie Factory

(By Holmes Alexander)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 23.—John D. Clark, member of the president's council of economic advisers, is a roundish, smallish, baldish gentleman with the appearance of a successful mid-west business man (which he used to be) and the voice and assurance of a college lecturer (which he also used to be). The multiple sides of Dr. Clark's character are best evidenced by the several careers—all of them honorable—which he has enjoyed.

He has been a public prosecutor, state legislator, corporation lawyer, Standard Oil vice president, bank director, professor of economics and dean of a School of Business Administration.

All this fully qualified Dr. Clark for the post he holds, and the joint economic committee was listening attentively the other day while Dr. Clark listed the current symptoms of run-away inflation and pleaded the administration's case for an inflation-control program. While Dr. Clark was reciting the evils of installment buying, Rep. Herter (R., Mass.) broke in with a question.

Form Of Installment Buying?

Herter wanted to know if housing mortgages weren't a form of installment buying and, if so, why did the administration favor them? The query caught Dr. Clark momentarily off balance but he recovered quickly. Herter, he said had "described our dilemma." Housing mortgages were certainly inflationary, but they were in popular demand. Naturally the administration yielded to the popular demand.

Perhaps I'm putting too fine a point upon it, but this does seem to be a very revealing description of the administration "dilemma." Housing, as it happens, is a legitimate popular demand. But not all popular demands are legitimate. So where to draw the line? The Tru Deal has engaged to keep the country prosperous—but not at the expense of unpopularity. If this requires a severe twisting of the economic structure, will the Tru Deal go ahead and twist?

Might Get Badly Mauled

No one should answer this question glibly or cynically. To say that Mr. Truman or his trusted advisers are nurturing dark plots against the economic structure is nonsense. Yet the human imagination for centuries has played with the plot of well-meaning men who become the victims of their own machinery or inventions. It would be just as nonsensical to say that such a thing could not happen to an administration which gets tangled in the machinery of the proposed inflation controls. It is far from inconceivable that an administration, with one ear cocked to popular demands, might catch its heel in the cogs and get us all badly mauled.

Let us be specific. On the very day that Dr. Clark was testifying on the hill, Henry Wallace was holding a press conference at the Hotel Willard. Wallace also wanted people to have housing—exactly twice as much housing as the Tru Deal was promising. Wallace wanted benefits for the farmers—about 1.5 billion dollars more than the Truman budget called for. Wallace was 1.1 billion dollars more generous in the matter of educating the voters' children.

Giant Pie Factory

It is easy to see that the pie in the sky would soon be exhausted under a Wallace budget. What then? Why, the immense powers of American production must be turned into a giant pie factory. This would require a system of controls which differ in degree, but not in kind, from those requested by Mr. Truman. Such a pie factory would limit prices and profits, stipulate quotas for steel and other heavy production, channelize raw materials into selected enterprises. The administration inflation-control program contemplates all these things. So does the Wallace budget.

The difference, of course, is significant. According to Wallace, the pie factory should begin to operate at once and at full speed. The Tru Dealers are only asking for stand-by controls. The machine will be used only in event of dire emergency. But the dilemma which Dr. Clark pointed out still remains. Many times in the years ahead the Tru Deal will have to decide between sound economics and popular demand. Will the machinery so handy, it would become harder and harder to make a wise and honest choice.

State Police Say:

Fog lights may be used under certain driving conditions and limitations. They are classed as auxiliary driving lights and must not be used in substitution of the regular head lamps, except where conditions of fog or rain render disastrous the use of headlamps. The lights must be so arranged that when fog lamps are in use the rear lamp, showing a red light visible 500 feet to the rear, will also be illuminated. Vehicles using fog lights are restricted to a maximum speed of 35 miles per hour.

They Say

ALBANY, N. Y.—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey: "I have never seen the time when any legislative body was happy to levy taxes nor when any chief executive was happy about recommending them."

NEW YORK—Sir Norman Angell, Nobel peace prize winner: "Power is still used only as a means of winning wars that have already broken out, if it is to be used as a deterrent of war, then those who would wage war must be made to realize in advance that they will meet effective resistance."

WASHINGTON—Rep. Roy O. Woodruff, Michigan, Republican: "I think the president will find he's tried to cover too much territory before this (social security) bill comes out of committee. The federal government can't take on the burden of trying to take care of everybody everywhere."

LONDON—Voita Benes, brother of the late Czech president: "Unfortunately, my names is Benes. For me, Czechoslovakia is a country of the past. I don't know if I shall ever return there. I hope (in the United States) my name will be forgotten."

Plan Railroad
Up To Alaska

Prospects Are Now Reported
As Promising For New Project

OTHER NEWS OF
NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(Special to Central Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The day when a streamlined "Arctic Limited" train will roll out of Seattle on an overnight run to Fairbanks, Alaska, may be just around the corner.

Prospects for the most important peacetime Alaskan developments since the Klondike gold rush of '98—construction of a direct railroad connection with the United States Pacific coast—now seem most promising.

Agitation in western states for a railroad to link Seattle with Fairbanks has resulted in legislation, urging the project, introduced in the 81st Congress by both Democrats and Republicans.

This legislation, which is expected to quickly pass both House and Senate, will direct President Truman to negotiate with Canada for an agreement to permit cooperative construction of the line.

Optimism is high on the Pacific coast, especially in Seattle, that construction may be commenced
late this year, or at least by 1950, despite the tremendous estimated cost of between 700 and 800 million dollars. It is anticipated that private commercial interests will provide half of the needed funds.

The concurrent resolution now before Congress states that the development of Alaskan territory and resources is essential to the national economic welfare; but that existing transportation facilities are inadequate for such development, and also for defense in event of an emergency.

It is pointed out by competent authorities that water transportation between the Pacific coast and Alaska is subject to so many interruptions in peacetime, and is so vulnerable in wartime, that full dependence cannot be placed on it.

While dozens of large commercial planes fly daily from Seattle to all Alaskan points in a matter of hours, this method is too costly for general heavy freight and commodity shipments.

During the war, in 1942 and 1943, the United States army engineers made a survey of the advocated route, for defense purposes, which would have extended the proposed railroad even beyond Fairbanks — to Nome and the shores of Bering Strait, only a few miles opposite Russian Siberia.

However, after United States forces pushed the Japanese out of the Aleutians, the railroad plan became just another project which was given a non-priority status by the favorable turn in the tide of war.

Under leadership of the Seattle
Chamber of Commerce, the Western States Council last year adopted a resolution urging the project.
This council is composed of representatives from California, New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Utah,
Nevada, Wyoming, Idaho, Oregon,
Montana and Washington.

Railroad legislation introduced last year was approved by the Senate, but Congress adjourned before the House could take action.

Seattle already has direct rail connections to Vancouver, British Columbia, via the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads. At that point, there is a 42-mile gap northward until the Pacific Great Eastern railway begins at Squam-
ish. Freight and passengers now move from Vancouver to Squamish
by steamship.

Rail construction around this water gap would be the first link needed.

The next link—347 miles of operating P. G. E. line from Squamish to Quesnel, B. C.—would probably have to be purchased from British Columbia under the joint agreement; and the present light rails replaced with heavier ones.

Principal construction link would be approximately 1,500 miles — northwest through the Rocky mountain trench from Quesnel to Koko Station, which lies on the present Alaskan railroad line between Fairbanks and Anchorage.

Bill Introduced For Conservation Of State Resources

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—(INS)
—A bill in the Senate Forests and Waters committee heralded a cooperative drive to conserve the state's resources between the state and woodland owners.

Sen. Montgomery F. Crowe, (R)
of Monroe, introduced a measure which would set up forest practice boards in each of the 24 forest districts in the commonwealth to determine the correct forest cutting, care and conservation measure in particular districts.

The measure called for appointment by the Department of Forests and Waters of three members from each county in forest districts to district forest practice boards. One appointee may be a county commission while two must be individual woodland owners or representatives of corporate owners of forests, according to the bill.

After the boards have worked out the best practices in particular districts, the Forests and Waters department secretary would pass on them. Then individual owners could file written agreements with the state to follow the accepted procedures.

Cooperating woodland owners would then receive state aid including among others assistance in marking timber, marketing advice, reforestation and silviculture operations in immature stands.

The Battle of New Orleans, during the War of 1812, was fought two weeks after the treaty of peace was signed. In those days of slow communication, neither army knew until weeks later that the war was over.

Bobby Clark, one of the greatest comedians of our time, would like to revive the lion act he did in burlesque with his old partner McCullough. The manager of a side-show offered Clark a dollar to wrestle with a lion. When Clark demurred, the manager assured him, "Our real lion has escaped.
This fellow (McCullough) will wear a lion skin and the suckers will never know the difference."
Clark, of course, perked up at once when he heard this. And the real lion walked into the cage

behind his back while he told the audience what he was going to do to the "king of beasts." The next ten minutes provided more laughs than any other act I can remember. Clark whacked the lion with his cane, kicked it, played leap frog with it and waved a flashlight in its eyes. When the lion roared, he would cry: "That's great! You sure are fooling the audience." Occasionally he'd sniff and declare: "What a performance! You even smell like a lion."
For the payoff the lion would start chasing Clark around the cage. The manager yelled: "Hey, I've been trying to tell you! That's the real lion in there with you!"
Clark's final speech was: "This is a heck of a time to tell me!"

Urges Commission Be Appointed For Mine Safety Study

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—(INS)—An investigation of mine safety in the bituminous coal fields by a special 10-member commission was called for today by Sen. Fred P. Hare (R-Somerset).

In legislation sent to the Senate Mines and Mining committee, Hare proposed allocation of $25,000 for the expenses of a bituminous coal mines safety study commission operating under the supervision of the General Assembly's Fact-Finding Joint State Government commission.

The committee, Hare said would be charged specifically with "determining the degree and extent to which means are employed in the bituminous coal industry for the protection and safety of the miners" and to ascertain "whether additional or better safety measures should be required."

Would Name Three

Under the Hare bill, the governor would be authorized to name three of the 10 members while bituminous mine operators and the bargaining agents of the United Mine Workers of America would appoint three each.

State Secretary of Mines Richard Maize would serve ex-officio during the investigation which would end with a report to the General Assembly during the session of 1951. Members would serve without pay but would receive expenses from the state.

Farm Hand Wages Up Eight Per Cent

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—(INS)—The average wage paid to Pennsylvania's farm hands went up eight per cent during 1948 the Agriculture department said today.

A federal-state survey showed the average rate went from 66 cents an hour to 72 cents an hour from January 1, 1948 to the first of this year, excluding room or board.

Workers employed by the day received a 40 cent hike above the $5.30 figure for the year before, the department reported.

During 1948 the average pay per month with room and board advanced from $80 to $90. At the turn of the year hired farm workers supplied with a house on the farm received an average of $117 a month compared to $107 a year earlier, according to the report.

Wage rates per week with room and board at year's end averaged $23.25 compared with $22 the previous year and without room or board moved up during the year from $30.25 to $32.50, the department said.

Seek To Prevent Russia Quitting WHO As Planned

GENEVA, Feb. 23.—(INS)—The World Health organization has urged that pressure be exerted to keep the Soviet Union, the Ukraine and Byelo-Russia from quitting the organization.

The WHO executive board, holding its third session in Geneva, said that it had no authority to act on the announced intention of the three states to withdraw.

However, the board said that it could make recommendations to the World Health Assembly.

Every effort should be made, said the board, toward bringing the three nations to reconsider their attitude.

The only dissenting opinion was expressed by Poland's representative of the board, Dr. R. Kosusznik. He said he fully agreed with the Russian view that the WHO was not doing a competent job.

Dr. Kosusznik added that he would clarify his position in the near future, perhaps presaging his country's withdrawal from the WHO.

The board also recommended that the matter be brought before the second World Health Assembly in Rome in June.

Other business at the opening session included consideration of plans for operations in the coming year.

Executives' GuestNorthland Adventurer Will Show
Film Of MacMillan Expedition

JAMES V. STOWELL

James V. Stowell, northland adventurer, will be the guest of the New Castle Executives club at its dinner meeting in The Castleton Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock, when he will show a film depicting the beauty and realism of the Arctic.

Mr. Stowell, artist and photographer, sailed to the northern regions on the famous Arctic schooner, "Bowdoin," as a member of Capt. Donald B. MacMillan's expedition in 1946. He not only took many feet of film, but he also painted a number of portraits of the north.

He has been acclaimed for research and successful work in the field of archeology by many museums and scientific groups of America.

prises the air force recently put on a big show at Andrews field near here. President Truman and influential members of the senate and house were honored guests.

Sen. Millard Tydings, chairman of the senate armed services committee, gave a remarkable demonstration of the dizzying influence of such potent propaganda. Getting his planes mixed up, Senator Tydings, in an interview, made claims for the B-36 bomber which apply to a new bomber scarcely off the drawing board.

Continuing research and development in the air are essential to national security. But it is also essential to realize that promise is not performance and to confuse fantasy and fact is extremely dangerous. To equip every congressman with a jet-propelled broomstick and a jet-propelled imagination is hardly the way to get balanced rearmament.

majority rule," but none has so carefully maintained the rights of the minority. The majority may be fickle and at times tyrannical, but the Bill of Rights prevents the abuse of the powers of the majority.

A vital feature of our Charter of liberties is sometimes overlooked by some of the so-called evangelists who decry against the emphasis of "property rights" as supposedly differentiated from "human rights." As a matter of fact, the Bill of Rights recognized that property rights are inseparable from human rights. There is no right more sacred than the right to acquire and keep property. It recognizes this right in its admonition against theft and covetness.

(This, incidentally, might be invoked against certain taxation ventures of the government which virtually confiscates private property for the purpose of reckless spending.)

There is no better foundation for citizenship than a thorough acquaintance with the Bill of Rights.

Every boy and girl in the public schools of the nation should be taught its provisions and made to appreciate the part it plays in keeping America free in a world largely dominated by dictatorial tyranny.

It is also made the basis of many specious defenses to accusations of crime and the courts have to be very careful to differentiate between the right and wrong of the charge and the defense when the Bill of Rights has been invoked.

Pityriasis rosea is the pretty name for an inflammatory disease marked by redish spots and ring-shaped patches, usually on the trunk of the body.

Born" by Frances Strain (D. Appleton). At the end of my bulletin, "Undesirable Sex Habits in Children" (to be had in a stamped, self-addressed envelope by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York, N. Y.) I have a selected list of books helpful to parents. Some of these books, after being read by the parents, may be read with the child or by the child approaching the teen age or during his teens. Just for a parent to read some such book will give workable vocabulary and suggestions for imparting the essential information.

Intelligent understanding of the physiological facts related to normal development should prove valuable to the boy in his later teens in being more considerate of his sister and other boys' sisters. Such understanding by the young husband should make him a more thoughtful and sympathetic husband, and by the father a much kinder and much more considerate father of his adolescent daughter later.

But there seems to be no good reason for bringing up these matters to young children. However, if the younger child should broach the matter because of remarks he has picked up from other children, his parents might wisely give this child enough information to set him right, never causing him to suppose such inquiry of his parents naughty, but assuring him he can count on adequate information and instruction in due time.

Maj. Gen. William J. Donovan, known to most as "Wild Bill of the Fighting 68th", was a soldier in two world wars. Donovan was born in Buffalo, N. Y., on New Year's day, 1883. He studied at Columbia university, receiving his law degree in 1907, and began his practice in Buffalo. He married Ruth Rumsey in 1914. They have one son. In World War I Wild Bill rose from major to colonel, one of the most decorated soldiers in that conflict. In 1922 Donovan entered politics, lost his race for lieutenant governor of New York state. Back to private practice went Donovan in 1929, then in 1940 President Franklin D. Roosevelt sent him abroad on a highly secret mission, and in 1941, named him to the specially created post of co-ordinator of information. Later General Donovan headed the Office of Strategic Services.

Gael Sullivan, executive director of the Democratic National committee, was born in Providence, R. I., in 1904. His entire education through collegiate level was obtained in his home town. He attended De la Salle high school, and Providence college. Later he received the degree of doctor of political science at the same college. Post graduate studies were taken at Thomas Aquinas university, River Forest, Ill., where he received his M. A. For a year or so afterward he was an associate professor and lecturer on political science at De Paul university in Chicago, before joining the staff of an advertising firm. Sullivan entered the U. S. Army in World War II, serving 18 months in North Africa and Italy. Released from the army in 1945, Sullivan accepted a federal appointment as assistant postmaster general, under Robert E. Hannegan, a job he resigned in 1947. Sullivan is married and has four children.

Plan Psychiatric Institute Building For Philadelphia

Administration's $4,000,000 Program Is Presented In State Senate

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—(INS)—The administration's $4,000,000 program to build a psychiatric institute at Philadelphia was presented to the Senate Tuesday to put "Pennsylvania in the forefront of all states in dealing with mental illness."

The program, introduced by Sen. John W. Lord (R) Jr., Philadelphia, called for $2,000,000 to build the eastern psychiatric institute and $2,000,000 to run it for two years. The Philadelphia mental institution would be the second of its kind. Another was completed in 1942 in Pittsburgh.

Prevention and cure rather than custodial care is to be emphasized at the institutions.

Emphasis On Prevention

"The effect of these institutions will be to put the emphasis on prevention and cure rather than custodial care for those suffering from mental illness," Lord said, "because unless this great problem is met head-on for the purpose of restoring to health those suffering from mental illness... the state will be building a vast number of hospitals merely to stow them away."

Lord said the institute would provide training and teaching of students "to take up the gap between the number of qualified psychiatrists and the number needed."

It would provide at least 300 beds, fifty of them for children; provide regular courses for state hospital personnel; and dig into problems of administering treatment "effectively and humanely."

The keynote on prevention would be underlined by studies aimed at giving normal children "the proper background and training that will prevent mental disorders," Lord declared.

Margaret O'Brien's
Mother Abandons
Her Honeymoon

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 23.—(INS)—Child screen star Margaret O'Brien's mother abandons her honeymoon today to accompany her daughter to Boston for a stage appearance.

The attractive, widowed mother, the former Mrs. Gladys O'Brien, was married last night in Palm Beach to orchestra leader Don Sylvio.

Her daughter wept almost constantly during the ceremony and sobbed:

"Oh, mother."

Sylvio, whose orchestra has an engagement at the Lake Shore Club in Palm Beach until April, termed the couple's honeymoon "the shortest in history." He said he would join his bride in California after his Florida contract expires.

"Assignment; America"

By INEZ ROBB

(Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.)

(Distributed By International News Service)

HOUSTON, Feb. 23. — Jesse Jones, the first citizen of Texas and a newspaper man himself, would like to update Horace Greeley's advice "Go West, young man."

Mr. Jesse, as everyone calls him, believes it ought to read "Go South and West, young man."

The Texan, unlike Greeley, followed his own advice, and has wound up with more millions than he can count—and is still going strong.

As Mr. Jesse sat in his large office behind an impressive desk, pawing through it for papers he never could lay a hand on, he said:

"I believe this country offers young Americans just as much opportunity now as it ever did. But a boy can't stick around New York, New England or Pennsylvania and expect to have opportunity knock him down today."

"He ought to head south and west."

It was a land of golden opportunity when he came to Texas with a grade school education and started to work almost 60 years ago. It still is, in his expert opinion.

"Even then I figure the country must grow south and west. Up north, the tide of immigration went back and forth through a village called Chicago. It made a great city out of Chicago."

"So I looked around me, and I thought Houston is bound to be the Chicago of the South, but with one big additional advantage. Chicago is a thousand miles from the sea, and Houston is only fifty. Then we built the ship channel from Houston to the sea and it seemed to me we had everything here."

When Mr. Jesse first saw Houston 50 years ago, it was a town of 40,000.

Now Mr. Jesse envisions here a city of 2,000,000 souls, given "a reasonable amount of time" or maybe about a quarter of a century. It will not only be the center of the oil industry, but the hub of a vast industrial area as well as the great port of exit and entry between North and South America.

Not Much For Millionaire
Mr. Jesse pawed more energetically at the papers on his desk to find some statistics he needed. He opened one desk drawer after another. In one drawer, four one-dollar bills, two quarters and a penny reposed in lonely grandeur.

"Not very much mad money for a millionaire," I said.
Mr. Jesse smiled his sly grin and said:

"I ought to do better for visitors."

When he pulled open the next desk drawer, it revealed six decks of cards and two boxes that looked suspiciously like receptacles for poker chips.

Mr. Jesse snapped the door shut, looked a trifle sheepish and said:

"Looks like I'm fixed for anything, doesn't it?"

Although Mr. Jesse thinks Houston is getting a bit sissified because it now plays more bridge and gin rummy than poker, he still thinks the old pioneer spirit animates the region and makes it what it is.

He will be 75 in April, but he has plans for a number of new buildings in down-town Houston, although he is already king of the Houston skyline with 33 buildings tucked under his financial belt.

Owens New York Realty

Mr. Jesse owns several valuable real estate parcels in the heart of New York. But when I asked him which he regarded as his prime investments, New York or Houston real estate, he looked pained and said:

"Houston, of course!" in a voice that doomed New York to a wilderness in a decade.

In a way, Mr. Jesse is the embodiment of Texas: Big, vigorous, handsome, ambitious, rich, generous and varied in his talents. He has a faith in himself, his state, his nation and in manifest destiny that seems to permeate the very atmosphere here.

When people in these parts talk about keeping up with the Joneses they only have one Jones in mind. They mean Mr. Jesse. He has set Houston and Texas a fast pace for decades.

He surprises 'em once in a while, too. A rugged individualist, Mr. Jesse deserted the Democratic candidate last November to vote for Thomas E. Dewey. His Houston newspaper supported Dewey, too.

"I was not mad at anybody," Mr. Jesse explained. "I just thought we needed a change. Always takes a new set of rascals a while longer to learn the combination to the safe."

INFORMAL CHURCH WEDDING

"I am to be married soon in a quiet church wedding. I shall wear a street-length dress. I am not going to have my father give me away. We are having a maid-of-honor and best man only. How should we walk up the aisle? Who should escort me—the groom or best man? Is it necessary to have ushers? On which side of the church should my friends and relatives sit? On which side should the relatives and friends of the groom sit, if I am escorted up the aisle, should I walk on the left or the right side? My parents and my fiancé's parents have never met. Is it necessary or proper for them to meet before we go to the church to be married?"

Answer: Inasmuch as you are not going to be given away, you may walk up the aisle with the bridegroom or, if you prefer, alone. In an informal wedding of this nature, the best man and the maid-of-honor usually walk together, followed by the bride and groom. There need be no procession at all. The bride and groom and their two attendants may come in a side door near the altar. But regardless of the informality of the wedding, the bride may, if she chooses, be given away by her father and have him escort her up the aisle.

When the bride is escorted by her father, she should walk on his right. At the altar rail where she meets the groom, she should relinquish her father's arm and slip her right arm through the groom's left arm and proceed with him to the altar. This is necessary because she stands to the groom's left while being married. However, when the bride walks up the aisle with the groom, she should be on his left side. You need have no ushers, unless the church is very large and your guests will be so numerous as to require them.

The bride's relatives and friends should sit on the left side of the church (as they face the altar); the groom's should sit on the opposite or right side. The groom's parents should call on the bride and her parents as soon as the engagement is announced. If they fail to do so, you should invite them to dinner or to spend an evening at your home. All meetings should take place before the wedding.

Present your problems to Miss Markel who will promptly send personal replies to questions from readers inclosing stamped, addressed envelopes.

German Specialists Study Agriculture Methods In Penna.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—(INS)—Two German agricultural specialists are being initiated a three-week survey of Pennsylvania's farming industry to aid them in rebuilding 230,000 farms in the Wuertemberg-Baden sector of Germany, Horst said the survey would be conducted by the Agricultural Mission.

A preliminary tour of the department's bureau by Stooss and Herren yesterday will be followed by a detailed analysis of operations plus a study of the school of agriculture at the Pennsylvania State college.

"After ten years of war and the after effects of war, German agriculture is in poor condition," the specialists reported in a joint statement.

"Our farmers need assistance and we want to see how you operate here in Pennsylvania and the United States. From what we have seen and heard we know that we can assist our German farmers in many ways."

Colder Process Is Main Secret Of Phipps Find

U. S. A. — "The Readers Digest," most widely read magazine in the world, had this to say about "COLD RUBBER."

"If luck is with you, next time you buy a tire for your car you'll get more than you expect for your money. This year something like three out of 100 purchasers will receive a 'surprise package' tire."

Dean Phipps States that the "why trust to luck?" Cold Rubber tires can now be purchased at their stores. Cold Rubber gives a user mileage far beyond anything tire engineers thought possible. The evidence is overwhelming.

Girl Defendant In Murder Trial Gives Testimony

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23.—(INS)—Deloris Waldo, the 90-pound bobby-soxer who is on trial for the murder of her great aunt, was due back on the stand today to explain how Mrs. Norris' clothing caught fire while she was unconscious.

The 18-year-old juvenile court ward was on the stand throughout most of the Tuesday afternoon session and testified that she threw a flower pot at her aunt because her life was threatened. Miss Waldo said:

"My aunt was coming towards me. She said: 'I'm going to kill you, so I threw the flower pot at her.'"

In relating the details which preceded the slaying of her aunt last May 29, Miss Waldo used most of the jargon of the bobby-soxers. Her favorites were "gee whiz" and "jeepers."

Miss Waldo left the stand briefly when Defense Attorney Charles J. Magliotti called ten-year-old Catherine Totten, a former roomer at Mrs. Norris', to the stand.

Catherine claimed that Mrs. Norris hit Deloris and pulled her hair about three times when Miss Waldo stayed with her aunt for several months.

It was another attempt by Magliotti to show that Miss Waldo constantly had been mistreated by her aunt.

Seek Legislation For State Lottery

Three Philadelphia Assemblymen Propose State Operated Lottery To Raise Bonus

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—(INS)—Three Philadelphia assemblymen today sought legislative sanction of a state-operated lottery to raise funds to retire the 500 million dollar debt which would be incurred under the proposed veterans bonus.

Ten per cent of the gross yield from two annual lotteries would be earmarked for retirement of the bonus debt, 10 per cent would be set aside for commissions on tickets and the balance would be used for prizes and expenses of a five-member state lottery commission.

The bill, sent to the law and order committee, was co-sponsored by Democrats Albert L. Pfaff, William Limper and Louis A. Sternberg.

Each lottery would be based on a national or international sporting event.

The system of drawings and selection of winners would be determined by the commission composed of the secretaries of revenue and welfare, the auditor general and two members appointed by the governor.

Commissioners would serve without compensation.

A clause in the proposed bill would specifically outlaw prosecution of ticket buyers under the existing penal code's provisions against gambling.

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By DR. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

A Time Card for the Baby

It's a little confusing for young parents to hear from some quarters that a regular routine for the baby is very important and from other advisors that mothers should not become slaves to a routine.

Ten or 15 years ago we were putting much more emphasis on a railroad-like timetable. We often made parents feel that the most important thing in the life of the infant was to have things precisely on schedule.

The United States Children's Bureau has developed a very helpful guide for young parents. Called "Baby's Daily Time Cards," it presents a common-sense approach to the problem. It is suggested that a schedule be tried out and then changed if it doesn't seem to work so well. The following advice in an introductory statement shows clearly the sensible middle-of-the-road point of view that characterizes the "Time Cards":

"Even after you find a schedule that suits, once in a while something may upset it. Don't worry if you have to make some changes on such a day. As your baby grows he will be awake more and may not want so many feedings. Then you can alter his schedule to meet these changes."

A set of the time cards for the child up to one year of age can be obtained for 10 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C. You'll like them.

Virtual Call For Civil War In France Seen

By JOHN E. LEE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Feb. 23.—Non-Communist French quarters expressed shock and indignation today over Communist boss Maurice Thorez' suggestion that France cooperate with the Red army in the event of World War III.

Morning newspapers interpreted Thorez' statement as everything from a stiffening of party ranks, to a virtual call for civil war.

Some political leaders, notably members of Gen. Charles DeGaulle's right-wing "French peoples' rally" asked that the ministry of justice take legal action against Thorez.

The Communist leader issued his statement at a party meeting, where he said:

"Should (France) be dragged against its will into a war against the Soviet Union, and if the Soviet army, defending the cause of freedom and of Socialism, should be brought to pursue the aggressors to Oul Soil, could the workers and people of France have any other attitude toward the Soviet army than has been that of the peoples of Poland, Romania and Yugoslavia?"

In marked contrast to Thorez' remarks was a speech made by Premier Henri Queuille at a Paris American club dinner in honor of Washington's birthday.

Queuille said that the "same love of liberty" which inspired France to fight with Washington, was today helping deliver France "from the shackles which paralyze recovery, among which is the fear of Communism."

New York Stocks POST-HOLIDAY MARKET QUIET

Market Today Shows Indecisive
Pattern Of Price Fluctuations

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(INS)—The Stock Market showed an indecisive pattern of price fluctuations in quiet post-holiday dealings today. Most active issues were only fractionally changed.

Motor shares were easier. General Motors declined 3/8 to 58 3/4 and Chrysler was off 1/4 at 52 3/8. Oils were firm, with Standard of New Jersey chalking up a gain of 1/2 point at 68. Ohio and Socony Vacuum held unchanged.

Steels were steady, with U.S. Steel unchanged at 71; Bethlehem up 1/8 at 31 1/8, and Republic unchanged at 24 1/8.

Westinghouse and Montgomery Ward were fractionally higher, while DuPont and International Harvester were off small fractions.

The rails were unsettled by renewed weakness in Norfolk and Western which sold off 1 3/8 points to a new low at 51 1/4.

Other rails did little, with New York Central active and unchanged at 10 1/8 and Pennsylvania unchanged at 16.

The Bond Market continued to be featured by further softness in secondary rail issues.

Strength in grains highlighted the Commodity markets. Cotton was mixed.

Disclose Russian Soldiers Arrest American Girls

Two Seized In Vienna Attempting To Photograph Picture
Of Stalin

VIENNA, Feb. 23.—(INS)—U. S. military police in Vienna disclosed today that the Russians last night arrested two American girls, one of whom complained of mistreatment by two armed Soviet soldiers. The girls—Carol C. Hackett, 21, of Berkeley, Calif., and Constance A. Cole, 23, Watertown, N. Y.—were held for two hours and then released. M. P. officials said the girls were seized when they attempted to photograph a picture of Stalin in the Soviet district headquarters in Vienna. Miss Hackett was quoted as saying that two red army men grabbed her roughly by the arm and pulled her about ten yards when she resisted arrest.

The M. P. report said that after Austrian police unsuccessfully tried to interfere, the girls were taken inside the headquarters where they were asked to sign statements in English and Russian.

Three rolls of film and their passports were confiscated, the police said, but were returned later. Miss Hackett and Miss Cole are employed by the U. S. military government in Nuernberg and were on a visit to Vienna. U. S. officials in Vienna are expected to protest to the Soviet administration over the incident.

Have Important Roles In Senior Play On Friday

Vincent Yakowicz Myron Frank

Vincent Yakowicz and Myron Frank are cast for two completely contrasting roles in the Senior high school's farce comedy, "The Professor Goes Haywire." Vincent plays Froggy, one of the Rah! Rah! boys of the campus of which Myron plays the dignified dean. Froggy is one of the "professor's devoted admirers, but even so he is closely identified all through the play with the hilarious hazing of the newly installed young member of the faculty.

"Snowball's non-academic interest has been dramatics first and next, more dramatics. He is the son of Mrs. Anna Yakowicz of North Liberty street.

"Jake" Frank has in addition to his enthusiasm for dramatics had a very prominent place in student organizations; he has held the office for class president in his junior year and is now the president of the student council, a post to which he was elected by the entire student body. He is the son of Mrs. Helen Glenn of Richelieu avenue.

Children's Summer Camp Provided

Measure Passed By Legislature For Camp For Underprivileged Children

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—(INS)—Only Gov. James H. Duff's signature was needed today to start machinery for the establishment of a state-sponsored summer camp for Pennsylvania's underprivileged children.

The senate-approved measure was sent to his desk yesterday after receiving final approval by the house.

The bill, sponsored by senate president pro tempore M. Harvey Taylor, authorizes a two-week camp for 2,500 children this year on an unused portion of the Indiantown Gap military reservation, home of the Pennsylvania National Guard. The camp, supervised by the departments of military affairs and public instruction, would be increased to accommodate 5,000 children in 1950. Campers would be selected by a non-partisan committee from among the commonwealth's underprivileged children who ordinarily would not have the opportunity to enjoy camping pleasures.

The word paper is derived from papyrus, but papyrus is not a paper, and the beginnings of the paper industry are traced to genuine paper made by the Chinese in very early times. From the Chinese it spread to Europe in the 12th century.

State Authority Bill Is Favored By Committee

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—(INS)—The House State Government committee on Tuesday gave swift approval to Gov. James H. Duff's state authority program which would permit the commonwealth to borrow millions for immediate long term improvements.

Committee Chairman Rep. Ivan C. Watkins (R) Schuylkill, reported the two pronged program, introduced into the House Monday to lawmakers for initial consideration.

House Majority Leader Charles H. Brunner, Jr., (R) Montgomery, announced that the bills will be "moved right along."

The measures, sponsored by Brunner and House Whip Charles C. Smith (R) Philadelphia, proposed creation of a general state authority and a state highway and bridge authority. The two measures are designed to spread the burden of financing millions of dollars worth of long-range improvement over three decades.

FIGHTS
Wherever there are boys, there will be fights. City boys have fights and country boys do too. All down through the ages there has been a fight against disease. The fight has usually been pretty much one-sided. Disease mostly came out the victor.

For the last few years our land has been more fortunate than usual. We seem to be gaining on some of the diseases.

Smallpox, malaria, plague, diphtheria and typhoid seem to be pretty much under control. That does not mean that the war is over. Only by constant vigilance can these diseases be avoided. Good food, good homes, good schools and good churches help to keep us healthy. Sanitation, vaccination, dietetics and quarantine are pretty big words and pretty big jobs too.

Martin To Force Congress Action On Tax Decrease

House Republican Leader Wants Billion And Half Cut In Taxes

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—House Republican Leader Martin gave the Democrats a month in which to act on his tax reduction bill repealing wartime excise levies, the so-called luxury taxes.

After that, Martin declared, he will feel free to attempt to force a vote on the bill to lop off one billion to one and one-half billion dollars in consumer taxes.

Increase Will Fail
The former House speaker reiterated his prediction that the ways and means committee will not approve President Truman's request for a four billion dollar tax increase or vote any tax increase.

Martin added, however, that the Democrats "might try to give the impression of following out his recommendation." They might do this, he explained, by increasing some taxes, but offset it by decreasing others.

Martin stated: "The House isn't going to vote for any tax increases this year." The Massachusetts Republican said if the committee fails to act on his wartime excise tax repealer, a discharge petition will be filed in an effort to force a vote. He is confident such a bill would be approved.

Favor Reduction
Martin said Republicans generally favor elimination of the wartime excise taxes and indicated his confidence that a discharge petition soon will be signed by a majority of House members.

Under House rules, when 218 members sign a discharge petition, the measure is forced out of committee without further action and the way opened for a vote. When Martin became speaker of the House in January 1947, the Republicans, then in control of Congress, planned a speedy repeal of the wartime rates. President Truman requested, however, that they be extended for another year. Congress thereupon extended them indefinitely.

Subsequently, the 80th Congress, which Mr. Truman denounced as the "second worst" Congress in history, also passed a five billion dollar personal tax reduction bill over the President's veto.

Nearly Five Billion Dollars Authorized For Nations' Aid

E.C.A. Has Allocated Nearly All Of Funds Provided Under Marshall Plan

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(INS)—The economic cooperation administration disclosed today that it already has authorized the European recovery nations, China and Korea to buy $4,736,293,000 worth of Marshall Plan materials.

This leaves ECA with more than 300 million dollars still to be spent in its European operation and about 80 million dollars for the China program, both for the next 40 days pending a new foreign aid appropriation.

More than two billion dollars has been allotted to European countries for the purchase of food and agricultural commodities while another two billion has been approved for industrial equipment and raw materials.

ECA said that as of last Dec. 31, 53.5 percent of the authorizations were for purchases in the United States, Canada and Newfoundland were to get 24.4 percent of the purchases, ERP countries 8.8 percent, Latin America 7.6 percent and other nations 5.7 percent.

Approximately half of the total authorizations has been purchased and reported shipped to the recipient countries. The authorized food purchases included red grains, coarse grains, rice, fats and oils, meats, dairy products, vegetables, and other materials.

Industrial commodities included coal, petroleum, cotton, vehicles and equipment, iron and steel mill products, non-ferrous metals, and other items.

Mr. And Mrs. Charles Garwig Celebrate Golden Wedding

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES GARWIG

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garwig, 1312 Albert street, quietly observed their golden wedding anniversary Tuesday, February 22, in their home. No formal celebration took place, with relatives and friends stopping in to wish them many happy returns of the day.

The couple were united in marriage February 22, 1899, at the First Baptist church, this city, with Rev. Palmer, pastor of the church, officiating. They are members of the First Methodist church. Two children were born to the union, Shirley, deceased, and Chester Garwig of this city. They have three grandchildren also.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Garwig are in fairly good health, with Mr. Garwig, a former employee of the street railway company, working daily at his maintenance duties in the Jameson Memorial hospital.

DeLUCA-AMBROSE MORNING WEDDING

St. Lucy's church was the scene of a lovely wedding when Miss Flora DeLuca, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale DeLuca of 315 W. Madison avenue, became the bride of James Ambrose, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Ambrose of E. Reynolds street. The couple exchanged vows at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, February 19, before an altar banked with palms and ferns. Rev. Fr. Ippolito officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a blush pink satin gown with a seed pearl embroidered neckline and a fully draped skirt ending in a long train. Her blush pink veil of imported silk illusion fell from a seed pearl crown to a fingertip length. She carried a prayer book with two white orchids and long satin streamers entwined with flowers and ferns.

As maid of honor, Miss Margaret Martino wore a gown of American Beauty with a large picture hat and long gloves to match. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

The bridesmaids were the Misses Norma DeLuca, Florence DeCarbo, Josephine Masi and Joan Cusino. They wore blue gowns with yellow hats and mitts, and carried small bouquets of red roses.

Anthony Frasso served the groom as best man and the ushers were Michael Augustine, Charles Farone, Thomas Cusino and Norman Cusino.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was held for the bride party and close friends and relatives at Unione Calabro hall after which a dinner was also served. A reception for over 300 guests was held in King Humbert hall later in the evening.

The newlyweds then left for a wedding trip to New York and upon their return will reside in their newly furnished apartment at 403 Pearson street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose are both employed at the Shenango Pottery.

Homebuilders Class
The Homebuilders class of the Central Christian church met in the church recreation rooms Tuesday evening. After a short business meeting conducted by the president, Bill Sentegeorge, the group enjoyed various games.

Prizes were won by Eleanor Succia, Shirley Harris, Dorothy Ciszner and Rev. Rainey. May Downs was remembered on her birthday with a gift from the class.

After the social period the men of the class prepared and served a delicious lunch.

Chrysolite Club
Mrs. Domenick Genovese was in charge of the Chrysolite club meeting held Tuesday evening in the club rooms on Division street. The birthday of Mrs. John Fuleno was honored and the anniversary of Mrs. Domenick Retort. Both received lovely gifts.

Card playing was the pastime later, high score prizes going to Mrs. Anthony Fair, Mrs. D. Genovese, Mrs. Paul Domenick and Mrs. William Cubellis.

Aiding the hostess, Mrs. Anthony Croach, serve a dainty lunch were her special guests, Mrs. Joseph Sansosti and Mrs. Sam Angelo. They received guest prizes. Wednesday, March 9, is the meeting with Mrs. Anthony Fair, in the club rooms.

SHRINE CARAVAN HAS MOCK TRIAL

Members Enjoy Program Of Entertainment At Meeting Tuesday Evening

Members of Lawrence Caravan No. 15 enjoyed a hilarious evening Tuesday when a mock trial was staged, with Judge John G. Lamoree presided as the judge, Attorney William J. Caldwell as the prosecuting attorney, and Charles E. Allen as attorney for the defense.

The accused, Francis E. Sowersby, finally received his acquittal through the brilliant testimony introduced at the 11th hour by his co-defendant, Jesse N. Kerr, much to the discomfiture of his accusers, who included past president Walter W. McGee, L. R. Berkhimer, Leon A. Drumm and Earl Yoho. Many of the members were led to believe that the serious charges preferred against the member were actually true, and an air of mystery prevailed about the entire proceedings, until the program got under way.

President Paul M. Pattison presided at a short business meeting preceding the program, when reports were given on the recent treat staged for the children of the Margaret Henry Home, and other activities, and the evening's program was concluded with a fine lunch.

Pennsylvania Power Company To Expand Plant And Facilities

Construction of the addition to the generating station at West Pittsburgh is the largest single item on Pennsylvania Power Company's future building program. The Company's expansion plans, however, include many other additions and improvements that will necessitate the expenditure of millions of dollars in this area during the next few years.

The peak demand for electricity on the Company's system in 1948 exceeded by more than 25% the maximum demand during the war. This demand was successfully met in spite of the fact that wartime needs prevented expansion plans during the war, and shortages of labor and materials have seriously hampered such expansion since the close of hostilities. Nationwide the output of electric utilities has increased more than that of any other major industry since 1939, and the local company has shared in this tremendous growth.

Demand Expands

The Company anticipates a continuation of this expansion in the demand for electricity, not only in industry but also in residential and commercial classifications. Electric service must be available the instant it is needed, and long-term planning is required to provide the necessary capacity in generating plants as well as transmission lines.

The Company's construction budget for this year is in excess of $2,500,000, of which less than a million dollars is the 1949 portion of the cost of the new generating unit at the New Castle plant.

The total cost of the plant and necessary transmission facilities in connection with the project when completed will approximate $12,500,000. Other expansion needs during the next three years will add other millions to the total capital expenditures.

Commenting on the Company's expansion plans, L. B. Round, Vice President and General Manager, stated today, "The war and post-war years have brought about unprecedented expansion in the demands for electricity. In spite of this, the Company generally has met these needs with only minor inconvenience. Today the Company is in the midst of the greatest construction program in the history of the industry. We are actively pushing these expansion plans. Already one large generating unit has been completed; another twice the size is on order and will be rushed to completion. Extensive transmission and distribution additions and improvements are under construction or contemplated. These improvements are being made so that we may be ready for the continued growth in electricity needs which we anticipate in this area."

Asking Bids For Conemaugh Dam

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23.—The U. S. army district engineer's office in Pittsburgh has advertised for bids for the construction of the Conemaugh dam, key project in the Pittsburgh district flood control system.

Estimates indicate that the total cost of the project will range between 35 and 40 million dollars. The Conemaugh is one of a series of eight flood control projects to be built in the Pittsburgh district.

The others are at Tygart near Grafton, W. Va., Tionesta, Mahoning, Crooked Creek, Loyalhanna, Youghiogheny and east branch dam on the Clarion river.

Pension Urged For Paralysis Victims

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—(INS)—Pennsylvanians over the age of 18 who are totally disabled from infantile paralysis would receive pensions according to a bill in the House.

The measure, introduced by Rep. James E. Lovett, (D) of Westmoreland, called for pensions but did not set a pension scale.

Organized Labor Aided Four Senators Campaign Funds

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(INS)—Senate records showed today that organized labor contributed to the election campaigns last fall of four Democratic members of the Senate Labor committee, including three freshmen.

Campaign contributions, as reported to the Senate, indicate how the CIO's Political Action Committee and other labor groups threw their financial support behind advocates of repeal of the Taft-Hartley law.

Three new Democratic senators—Neely, W. Va., Douglas, Ill., and Humphrey, Minn.—were named to membership on the labor committee by the Senate last fall.

The fourth labor committee member who won labor's financial help in the 1948 campaigns—Sen. Murray (D) Mont.—was a member of the committee in the Republican-controlled 80th Congress.

New Castle Defeats Ellwood City 64 To 33 In Season's Finale

Piccirillo And Reed Again Scoring Stars

New Castle High basketball team ended its 1948-49 floor season last night on a high note—defeating Ellwood City 64 to 33, for its tenth win of the year, and finishing in a tie for fifth place with Farrell, in Section 3.

A determined Ellwood team made a game out of it for the first period, which ended 5 to 4 in favor of the locals, but afterwards Ellwood's defense went amiss, and New Castle led at the half 22 to 14, and 38 to 23 at the end of the third stanza. New Castle pumped in 26 more points the fourth period to lead 64 to 33.

Reed-Piccirillo Shine
As usual young Don Reed and Don Piccirillo were the scoring luminaries, the former with 16 and a season total in Section Three of 218, the latter getting 18 points.

Reed was easily the outstanding scorer in Section Three this year. He has one more year at New Castle High before being besieged by offers from many colleges.

Phil Conti, playing his final game for New Castle, was in rare form last night and added 11 points to the score, besides playing a bang-up defensive game, as did Tony Ciaella in his final game. Dick Lewis, who has one more year to go, played a fine floor game, and added four points to the total. Darrell Shoaff in his final game got "hot" and swished in a couple of field goals, with Tom Clarke doing likewise. Sophomores Ray Latsko and Don Leiberger also made field goals.

Maniz Ellwood Star
Carl Maniz, the diminutive Ellwood forward, was the scoring star for the Wolverines with 11 points, while Tony Stramella, Joe Giovannini and Bill Watterson had six points each and were impressive. Ellwood couldn't seem to get going after a very fine start. Ellwood had the lead once in the game, 1 to 0 at the very outset when Watterson made a foul. With six minutes of the first period over, the score was 4 to 1 New Castle, both teams playing a tight defense.

Foul Shooting Off
Both teams were off in their foul tossing. New Castle made 6 out of 13 and Ellwood made 13 out of 22. It was a clean, hard fought game all the way.

Coaches George Thomas of New Castle and Ted Wallace of Ellwood City emptied their benches last night. It was the final game for many of the young players, and they got a chance to show their stuff.

The win made four victories and eight defeats for New Castle in Section 3, and Ellwood finished with three wins and nine defeats.

The final game of the season here drew a capacity crowd to the small inadequacy of Washington Junior High gym floor.

Titans Trounce Thiel Tomcats By Score Of 72 To 47

Extend Winning Streak At Home To 57 Contests

Blue And White Uses Entire Squad; Jones And Hales Top Titan Scorers

Westminster made it fifty-seven in a row at home last night by easily lacing the Thiel Tomcats 72 to 47.

The Titans had previously stopped Thiel in Greenville 85 to 75. The ease with which the Washbaughmen rolled over their latest foe has their rosters confidently believing that the Blue and White will keep the streak in tact for the rest of this season.

Home games remain on the schedule with Slippery Rock and Carnegie Tech. Both clubs have been beaten on their own floor by the lads from New Wilmington.

Titans Star Slow

Westminster started slowly. The Titan defense blocked many shots of the visitors, but their own ineptness under the basket kept the score close, 15-12, in the first quarter. Dembinski, Fuhrer, McCullough and Jones found the range in the second stanza and the home forces gunned to a commanding lead of 35 to 20 at half-time.

Coach Washbaugh started Halas, Shaffer, Mayberry, McCullough and King after the intermission. Big Ozark soon left the fray with five personal fouls and was replaced by Jones. This combination worked well together and showed a smooth passing, fast breaking game that resulted in 27 Titan points in the third period. All of the men on the squad saw some action during the last half. The numerous subs got lots of experience but certainly did not display the fine example of team play as demonstrated by their predecessors. The tiring Tomcats outscored their rivals in the last period 12 to 10.

Play Pitt Saturday

Captain Mike Duff of Thiel took scoring honors for the evening with 3 field goals and 7 out of 10 fouls. Jones and Halas, with 10 apiece, were high in the well divided Titan scoring spree.

Doc Carlson brings his Pitt Panthers to Farrell Saturday night for a home game on a "neutral" floor with Westminster.

Hunter-Wagner Bout Winners

CLEVELAND, Feb. 23—(INS)—Cleveland fight fans hoped verbally and plaintively today for a "natural"—a clash between homebred Chuck Hunter and free-swinging Dick Wagner of Portland, Ore.

Chief responsibility for the hula-baloos are the light-heavyweights in question themselves, each of whom scored highly in last night's bouts at the Cleveland Arena before 9,194 fans.

Hunter out-fenced Artie Levine of Brooklyn in the 10-heat scarp that was billed as the feature event, but Wagner and Blackjack Billy Fox of Pittsburgh stole the show with a Pier 9 brawl until Billy was declared out on his feet in the ninth-frame of their 10-rounder.

Six policemen were called into the ring to hold Fox after he lost the bout on a TKO verdict at 48 seconds of the ninth, following his fourth knockdown of the fight. Although he returned to the ring later in the evening to apologize publicly for his action, he was suspended 30 days by the Cleveland Boxing Commission. Chairman Andy Putka also ordered Fox to appear for a medical examination today.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

INFORMATION RECEIVED states that Clinton B. White, fish protector for Lawrence county, already has been in communication with the State Sanitary Waterways Commission at Harrisburg, because of the alleged pollution of Hickory Creek, which was to have been stocked with trout this spring. The creek has not been stocked for two years.

A line on the relative qualities of Elkins Brothers and Rizeri Ronzi, heavyweights, will be forthcoming when Art Williams, Pittsburgh, fights Ronzi, in The Arena, March 2. Williams staggered Brothers with a left to the head in the first round, after which Brothers put a right and left to the head which sent Williams back against the ropes at the end of the round. The second was filled with action but, it was in this round Brothers' superiority manifested, and when Williams tired in the fifth, and was undergoing "fire", the referee awarded the fight to Brothers. Rizeri Ronzi does not punch as stiff as Brothers but is equally as aggressive, is not more so. Williams may be a little faster, and a better boxer than Ronzi. If Williams is in tiptop condition fans may see plenty of action. . . . Harley Shoaff has returned from a jaunt to St. Petersburg Fla. Would Punish Theft Of Game

State Federation of Sportsmen at Harrisburg recently adopted a resolution urging the legislature to enact legitimate legislation giving the State Game Commission authority to impose a fine of $100, and imprisonment in default thereof, on any person convicted of stealing game. At present the state has no law covering the theft of deer or other game.

Other resolutions adopted are as follows:

Open season for taking coon by trap or dog, October 15 to December 31.

That the deer season for 1949 be the same as 1948, antlerless deer to be taken the last day of the season.

That the game commission urge the U. S. Fish and Wildlife service to give consideration to a split waterfowl season to be divided into two equal open periods in Pennsylvania, with a closed interval between.

That the law prohibiting the discharge of firearms on Sunday be repealed.

That the fish commission acquire fishing rights on private lands on the major streams within the state.

Around Hollywood

By FRANK NEILL

(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 23.—This is a fable about foibles... fashion foibles.

And when it comes to female fancy in fashions there is no more foibler a female than a movie actress.

All of this singular double-talk is the verbiage of a fashion designer who goes by the name of Milo Anderson.

You've seen his handle in the screen-credit department of practically ever flicker the Warner Brothers have manufactured since they laid the cornerstone of their first film factory.

Referring to fashions, Mister Milo referred to Joan Crawford and Alexis Smith, who can produce some of the finest references in Hollywood.

He made a pertinent point of emphasizing that Joan Crawford will gleefully don a slinky evening gown at the drop of the sun-social occasion permitting.

Miss Smith, perversely, would rather send her "regrets" than bare her beautiful bronzed shoulders to the evening breezes—particularly current California evening breezes when most of the local citizens are shaking like a Hulu Hulu dancer eating jello in an electric vibrator.

Patsy For Shoes
So Milo, who recently whipped up fancy duds for Joan in "Flamingo Road" and for Alexis in "South of St. Louis," declared:

"In private life the evening gowns in Miss Crawford's wardrobe outnumber every other type of dress. And in Miss Smith's clothes closets the ratio is reversed."

Jane Wyman is a patsy for shoes. In "Johnny Belinda," you might recall that she wore flat-heeled clodhoppers throughout.

"But she's strictly goofy over shoes," said Milo. "When Jane goes shopping—whether for a lamp or a hat or groceries—she more than likely will come home instead with a flock of shoes."
